- Hills, height 3
- Forests, height 9
- Blocking Terrain, height 9
- Marshes/Fields, Flat Terrain as described in the rulebook
- Obstacles, height 2 (as per rulebook)

Hobby

There will be 21 points available for hobby.

- 21 points for a cohesive army fully painted and based to a high standard (TO's Call)
- 18 points for fully painted, based and cohesive army
- 10 points for majority painted, based and cohesive army
- 5 points for some painting and basing
- 0 points for grey plastic horde

Each unit must be instantly recognizable to your opponent as to what it represents. It should be very clear to any player what the unit is intended to be within the list. It should also clearly look like it belongs in a list for example:

- Undead units should not be in an undead list unless the whole army is following an undead theme or it is truly representative of that unit (eg. Riftwalkers in Riff-forged Orcs)
- A list should not be a mash of models from various mismatched armies thrown together to allow the player to run a list. For example, there should not be something that looks like it belongs in a dwarven army being used as goblins. There may be an exception based on theme.
- If there are any questions regarding the appropriateness of models in your list please reach out to the TO.
- Armies which break this rule will be deducted 21 points.
